I believe that all members in all areas of our state should have a voice at the table. In my two years as one of your NEA Directors, I have sought to be a voice who also considers the needs of our diverse state. I work in a large local, but understand that my colleagues in smaller locals have different concerns that must be heard. I have sought to keep in contact with leadership and with members in as many locals as I could. I pledge to continue to do so and have made a commitment to lead our NEA director team to improve our connections to all locals in our state. I believe that an NEA director must be the link between the distinct workings of our state and the priorities of the National Education Association. I know my work is not done and I am determined to make the next three years the strongest in communication by listening to our members in order to make the best decisions possible for a positive and productive working environment for all educators and for the students we serve.
